Consent to show your information in the electronic tool

Your employer is using the electronic tool Work Ability Compass, provided by Mehiläinen to enable activities supporting individual working ability for employees whose ability to perform at work has diminished temporarily or permanently. Transferring information electronically enhances communication between occupational health and the company, which in turn enhances and improves the support and care provided to the employee. The goal is to support the employee's working ability, initiate any necessary care and rehabilitation actions, and enable timely return to work after sick leave.

Work Ability Compass displays the following information:

- Sick leave duration and dates without diagnoses
- Actions in accordance with the early support model and their dates
- Schedule for further actions estimated by occupational health, and suggestions for ending the working ability monitoring period
- Working ability plan
- Occupational health negotiation memos
- Employer reports to occupational health services regarding the monitoring of working ability
- Information provided by pension and occupational accident insurance companies to the employer regarding decisions (rehabilitation, pension, occupational illnesses)

NOTE: Work Ability Compass will NOT display illness information or sick leave diagnoses.

I give my permission to show my information in the WorkAbilityCompass 3
