10x Genomics product update: enabling the next generation of single cell and spatial experiments

Single cell and spatial omics research are at the forefront of innovative biology. At 10x Genomics we continue to push the boundaries to enable access to more samples and increase the resolution of the results. Please join us for an overview of some new applications in single cell and spatial technology.

14:15 – 15:00: Local Users presenting their research projects using 10X Genomics technology
